ON THE THRESHOLD OF A DREAM.....

THE YEARBOOK OF LOYOLA COLLEGE

BALTIMORE, MARYLAND::

Loyola 2?

To begin this book by assuming the role of apologists is somewhat aking to surrendering before fighting the battle (that is if we were not already pacifists.) Yet we feel the need for a preface so to explain what this book is about. Back in September of '71, the student body returned to schol, expecting just another academic year. (Of course there was the merger (no, assimilation) of Mt. St. Agnes to be considered. But this fact alone would hardly create any anticipation of major changes.)

But no, the students discovered that they now attended Loyola 2. Now you may ask what the hell is Loyola 2? Many students did (and still do). Supposedly, Loyola 2 is the result of the merger of Lyola with Mt. St. Agnes College. Now, young men and women could attend the same college together, free from the archaic policies that maintained sexual segregation. In a spirit of brother—and sisterhood, the students of Loyola 2 could learn to educate themselves fully. Yet in February of '72, some resident students discovered the harsh reality of the administration's policy of "look, don't touch". The furor that arose over visitation rights is just one example of the paradoxical situation that exists at Loyola. We look to the future but find ourselves held back by the past. As a recent folksong says, "We're knee-deep in the big muddy, and sinking fast." But all is not lost, that's why we chose an optimistic theme for the book. If people would get their heads together, then Loyola will truly find itself "On the Threshold of a Dream."

Therefore, this yearbook will show the good as well as the bad so to illustrate the true Loyola. If our cynicism shows through, it's only natural, considering the apathy and ineptness that is often encoutered on this campus. After all, a cynic is but a blasted romantic. So bear with us, settle back and share our tears and laughter.

Theatre Loyola "come of age"

With the merger of the two colleges, there followed a second merger of the respective theatre companies of the schools. The result was Theatre Loyola under the direction of Dale Edward Fern. TL's first production, "come of age," a revival of a 30's melodrama, played to sellout crowds.

ZZZZZZZZ . . .

In that space in time that comes between end of semester and final exams, there is a lull in the harried world of the student. He, or she, finds a quiet place to rest his weary head, trying to acquire the energy to cram for those finals. And suddenly, it's all over, the semester's gone, and all your tears and joys of the past sixteen weeks become yet another segment of the chambered natilus of memory.

The South Vietnamese leader had some advice for "peace" elements in South Vietnam: "We cannot ape the Americans in everything. As a nation the Americans are like a superman whose constitution makes it possible for him to swallow a large amount of poison. Ours will not survive even a much smaller dose". Earlier, he also warned the nation not to "sleep on our laurels for the enemy can still strike us forcefully in some sections of the Republic".

SAIGON, June 10 (VP)-- The Government of the Republic of Vietnam has officially announced today that it intends to grant concession rights for petroleum exploration and exploitation on part of the continental shelf of the Republic of Vietnam.

Thus, the Republic of Viet-Nam remains the only power to possess the most legitimate rights of sovereignty over the archipelagos of Spratley and Paracels because it has fulfilled conditions required by the Convention of 1885 concerning establishment of territorial competency.

The Government of the Republic of Viet-Nam declares that it has full sovereignty over the Spratley and Paracels and therefore rejects any claims from any foreign power over them.

I nodded that this was true. We had been foolish virgins in the war, right at the end of childhood.

"But you're not going to write it that way, are you."

"I—I don't know," I said.

"Well, I know," she said. "You'll pretend you were men instead of babies, and you'll be played in the movies by Frank Sinatra and John Wayne of some of those other glamorous, war-loving, dirty old men. WINTER TERM

Though the furor over the 4-1-4 scheduling continues to rage in certain quarters of the campus, no one denies the degree of flexibility that the January Term, also known as the minimester (as opposed to the concept of the megaversity), offers to both students and faculty. In the six weeks of the winter term, the student can choose from such various courses as studies in medieval armor, social rehabiliation work, seminar in the fine arts (for those that ain't got no culture), and overseas studies. The overseas courses this year included a study of the modern theatre scene in London, field laboratory in Jamiaca, as well as political and sociological research in Western Europe. With such a diversified course offering, the argument for the winter term is attracting more and more followers.

BRITISH DRAMA TOUR

Led by that well known "bon vivant" Dr. Thomas Scheye, nine students from Loyola and other nearby colleges spent a whirlwind three weeks in the city by the Thames.

While staying in London, the group saw the cream of the current theatre productions of the winter season. The plays ran the entire spectrum of the stage from the traditional repertory of the Old Vic to the "total theatre environment" of Pablo Picasso's "Four Little Girls". Beyond theatre-going, the group ranged far and wide over the English countryside from Oxford to Windsor to Dover. Some adventurous souls struck out on their own for Spain, Ireland, and Holland. All in all (according to the Beatles), "a splendid time was had by all". Or, it was, quite simply, "super".

LOYOLA COLLEGE VISITATION POLICY

Guidelines for Male and Female Students

The Visitation Policy was adopted by the College to improve the social atmosphere on campus, to facilitate men and women students studying together, and generally to promote normal and healthy exchanges between maturing men and women. This spirit and intent, as well aa the Policy itself, are applicable to all College residence facilities, specifically including not only Hammerman and Butler, but also the Underwood Apartments.

The College does not condone premarital sex and will not tolerate, at any time in any of its residence facilities, actions which endanger the well-being or reputation of individual students or the College community. The College expects each student to be aware of his or her responsibilities to other individuals and to the resident atudent population as a whole.

The following guidelines are intended to specify the spirit and intent of the Visitation Policy, and apply at all timea to all students in all of the College's reaidence facilities:

1. For any student to spend the night with a member of the opposite sex in any room or apartment of the College is a violation of the Visitation Policy punishable by expulsion.

2. For any student to be in bed with a member of the opposite sex at any time in any room or apartment of the College is a violation of the Visitation Policy punishable by expulsion.

3. For any student to be unclothed in the presence of a member of the opposite sex in any room or apartment of the College is a violation of the Visitation Policy punishable by expulaion.

spring concert: edgar winter's white trash

The walls of Loyola's ancient gym were put to the test the night of the spring concert as Edgar and friends did some real "rock and roll" for an appreciative crowd.

"Groupies" from the area swarmed over the campus much like an invading army. As the lights went down, the sweet smoke of you know what rose to the rafters. So did the audience, for that matter!

Though White Trash has undergone a major change in personnel, Edgar and his new back-up put on a rocking show.

Pete Larkin of WKTK-FM, M.C.'s the show

mime show

At the invitation of two drama students, Kate Donleavy and Karen Mueller, the touring company from Baltimore's Center Stage agreed to perform an evening of mime at Loyola.

The husband and wife team of Sophie Wibaux and Bert Houle, having studied under the master of mime Marcel Marceau, illustrated their skill to a rapt audience. Their program included both the tragic and comic elements of the artistry of mime.

From its early struggling days, Toad has emerged as one of the outstanding folk clubs in the Baltimore area. Under the heading of Mariale Melanson, the staff and many friends make an evening at Toad a pleasing experience.

Though the majority of students at Loyola ignore the shows at Toad, there are enough hard-core folk music lovers on and off campus to pack the house every weekend.

Also, Toad sponsors two large concerts each year. A sampling of the talent that appears at Toad includes such groups as Trespassers Will, Euclid McPherson, Together and Alone, and Emerson's Old-Timey Custard Suckin' Band. Congrats to Mariale and the staff!

senior prom—rock on!

The class of 1972 closed out their four years at Loyola in great style by rockin' on at the prom. Wined and dined by the fine services of Martin's West, the couples were ready for an evening of foot-stomping music by the Royal Five Plus One.

"Plus," a group of rollickin' young musicians, kept the folks moving all night with selections from Humble Pie, Free, Allman Bros., as well as original compositions. Even the people at the back of the hall were kept jumping all night long.

Apathy Helps Cripple Yearbook
By Howard Simkin
Due to crippling financial troubles, there will be only 300 copies of the Evergreen 1972 for sale. In addition to their financial woes, the Evergreen has two other major problems: a lack of facilities and what Tony Kern, Editor-in-chief, calls "total student apathy."
The reason for the limited edition of Evergreen '72 explains Tony, is the staggering student apathy. After extensive efforts on the part of Evergreen, which included mailing appeals to the student body, apathy has still con-

To our friends who have helped us when it was needed, we extend sincere thanks:

Kurt Vonnegut Jr., Harlan Ellison, J. R. R. Tolkein, my mother, Bernard Nachbahr, the English department, One Adam-12, Monster Zero, Bernie Seidl, Buck Schwindler, Mariale, Mary Lou, Charlie and Kathy, Denise, Bucky Fuller, Timmy and Lassie, Uncle Ho and Aunt Martha, Paul and Art, Terry, John and Kathy Pescetto, Steve Reno, Uncle Ed, Les and Herb, Miss Nancy, and a cast of thousands.

To those students, faculty, and administrators, who helped turn this book from an enjoyable, extra-curricular activity to an almost stifling burden, the editors wish to extend one cordially upraised middle finger for their spirited inattention, ignorance, and arrogance toward the ideals that this school is held to represent.

P.S.—We enjoyed it anyway.

Now you know that you are free,
Living all your life at ease.
Each day has its always,
A look down life's hallways, doorways,
To lead you there.

Now you know how nice it feels,
Scatter good seed in the fields.
Life's ours for the making,
Eternity's waiting, waiting,
For you and me.

Now you know that you are real,
Show your friends that you and me
Belong to the same world,
Turned on to the same world,
Have you heard?
Have you heard?
Have you heard?
Have you heard?
Have you heard?
